The information obtained through use of this Order, or through written discovery between the parties, may only be used or disclosed for the purposes of this litigation or proceeding. Except with the prior written consent of the producing party, the information produced pursuant to this Order shall not be disclosed to any person other than (a) counsel for the parties, (b) employees or agents of counsel for the parties, (c) any current or former employee of a party, to the extent deemed necessary by counsel for the prosecution or defense of this litigation (d) experts and consultants retained for the prosecution or defense of this litigation (e) any authors or recipients (in the ordinary course of the healthcare providers business) of the medical information or (f) the Court, court personnel, court reports or, and witnesses. Defense Firm and its designated representatives are prohibited from using or disclosing the protected health information for any purpose other than the litigation or proceedings for which such information was requested, and neither they, nor their agents, nor employers shall re-disclose such information to third-parties, including specifically providing such information in any insurance industry index system or similar data sharing system.

Defense Firm, or its designated representatives, will return to the covered entity, the protected health and employment information, or destroy said information at the conclusion of this litigation, within 30 days.

All requests for records under this Order shall be made prior to (90) ninety days preceding any established trial date.
